

CHAPTER FIVE

CONCLUSION AND RECOMMENDATION

Conclusion

Finally, two of research questions of this study have been answered. The first research question is about what students' perceptions are on the implementation of language day at dormitory of Madrasah Muallimin Muhammadiyah Yogyakarta. In order to answer of the first research question, the researcher summarizes as the following:

Language day is good to be implemented at dormitory because most of the participants perceived positive response about the implementation of language day at dormitory. Besides, language day is important to be implemented at dormitory because language day makes the students more creative in language and to be able to speak foreign language. Moreover, students' feeling was happy on the implementation at dormitory because there were five participants have good feeling about the implementation of language day at dormitory. Therefore, the implementation of language day at dormitory improves students' communication competence and students' speaking skill. Then, the implementation of language day at dormitory helps them in learning English and Arabic language. Thus, the students felt more confident when delivering speech in public area. The roles of teacher on the implementation of language day are as facilitator, resource, and guidance for the students. Meanwhile, the roles of the students on the implementation of language day are active participants, main actor, and target goal.

The second research question of this study is about what are the problems found in the implementation of language day at dormitory of Madrasah Muallimin Muhammadiyah Yogyakarta. In order to answer of the first research question, the researcher will summarize as the following:

Five problems found in the implementation of language day. The first problem is the students are being unfamiliar with foreign language (English or Arabic language). The second problem is the punishments are complicated to be implemented in language day. The third is the punishments applied are too heavy. The four is some teachers do not encourage the students to be active in the implementation of language day. The last is there is no serious control by the teachers in the implementation of language day at dormitory.

Recommendation

The researcher presents the recommendation revealed by the participants need as the students of Madrasah Muallimin Muhammadiyah Yogyakarta. The recommendations are:

For the student. The results of this study can give further comprehension about the implementation of language day. Moreover, some problems found in the implementation of language day can be considered for the students more attention to those problems. Therefore, the students can solve those problems.

For the teacher. The result of this study explained the problems found in the implementation of language day at dormitory of Madrasah Muallimin Muhammadiyah Yogyakarta. There were five problems faced in the implementation of language day. Based on the problems found in the research the teachers should control on the implementation of language day at dormitory because there were some students keep speaking Bahasa when they have a chance. Moreover, the teacher more encouraged the students to be active participants because there were some students felt lazy to do their daily activities on the implementation of language day. Additional recommendation, the teacher creates some fun activities at dormitory in order to make students felt familiar with foreign language on the implementation of language day. The last recommendation for the teacher is the teacher more creative on giving punishments for the students in order to make the students be cured of a habit and make the students felt comfortable on running language day at dormitory without pressing. Hope, these problems can be considered as the evaluation for the teacher and institution on the implementation of language day at dormitory. Thus, the implementation of language day will be better for the next years.

For the future researcher. For the next researcher who will conduct the research with similar topic, the researcher hopes that they have more need analysis in conducting the research and need some observations in gathering the data.
