Abstract

Purpose

The purpose of this study is to reveal the spiritual values in sharia transaction. The study was conducted using spiritual paradigm which refers to the Koran and As-Sunnah.

Design/methodology/approach

Employing qualitative approach, the researchers adopted Aminullah perspective in constructing ontology, epistemology, and the research methodology. Aminullah's perspective is constructed from three human characteristics namely Khalifatullah, Abdullah, and Abdurrahman which refer to the Koran. The data were obtained from an Islamic Financing Bank in Yogyakarta.

Finding

Using dialectic transcendental method, this study revealed that three spiritual values that should be recognized in sharia transactions are the value of trust, the value of justice, and the value of honesty. The three spiritual values in Islamic teaching are amanah (trust value), sharia (justice value), and moral (honesty value).

Research limitation/implication

Aminullah perspective may be different from the perspective of other researchers in seeing the reality of sharia transactions, so that the research can find different elements.

Originality/value

Research has revealed that sharia transactions require an intact perspective to see the reality of sharia transactions in assessing compliance with Islamic principles that include material and spiritual.

Keywords: deconstruction, Aminullah, reality, sharia transaction, contract, sharia principles.
