Disaster Mitigation Information in Football Matches

Fajar Junaedi
Filosa Gita Sukmono

Communication Department
UMY

A football match is an event that involves thousands of audiences, and, with the number of people coming in the same place, a stadium allegedly becomes a location which is prone to disaster.

Heysel Disaster (1985), Port Said Disaster (2012)

In Indonesia

76 DEATH

FOOTBALL DISASTER IN LAST 25 YEARS

Methodology

The research uses case study method.
Accurately, the data collection is performed using in-depth interview,
observation, and literature review.

DISCUSSIONS :
THE BACKGROUNDS OF DISASTER

THE ABSENCE OF MITIGATION DISASTER INFORMATION IN THE STADIUMS

THE UNPROFESSIONALISM OF THE FOOTBALL MATCH ORGANIZERS AND SECURITIES IN MANAGING DISASTER MITIGATION

THE INSUFFICIENCY OF THE STADIUM CONSTRUCTION TO DEAL WITH DISASTER

THE INADEQUACY OF MEDICAL FACILITIES IN EMERGENCIES

A selection and a strategy of accurate disaster mitigation are critical in hampering or dipping the rate of possible disaster damage and victims (Hasnawir, 2012:21).

RECOMMENDATION FOR ENHANCING DISASTER MITIGATION INFORMATION MANAGEMENT IN THE STADIUM
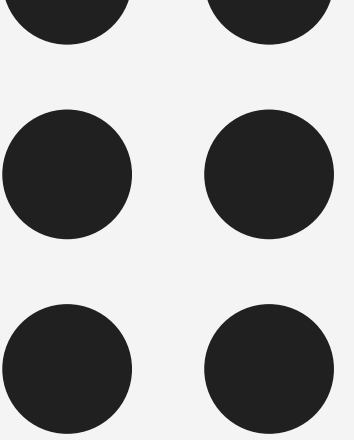

FOOTBALL FEDERATION

Regulation and its enforcement on mitigation in football matches

League Operator

-        Conducting regular checking on disaster facility and signpost in the stadium
-        Training for the match organizers to deliver mitigation information
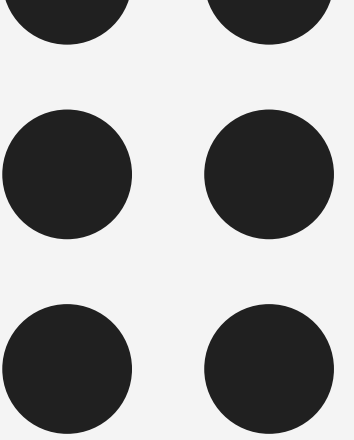

Match organizers

-       Detail checking process to all audiences entering the stadium
-       Layered checking system before the audiences come into the stands
-       Announcing information regarding disaster mitigation before the match, such as emergency evacuation, exits, and etcetera.

The government

-       Building stadium considering disaster mitigation
-       Building stadium heeding disable users

The security

-        Layered checking to all audiences before entering the stadium
-        Maximalizing preventive approaches toward football riots

Fans

-        Ensuring not to carry melee and dangerous weapons