

ABSTRACT

The purpose of this study is to determine the effect of regional gross domestic product, investment, provincial minimum wages in Java for the period 2012-2018. This study uses secondary data with eviews 7 analysis tools using data panel models. This model consists of time series data for the 2012-2018 period and cross-sections of 6 provinces in Java. The results showed that the regional gross domestic product and investment were significant at 0.0077 and 0.0073 and had a positive influence on labor in 6 provinces in Java while the provincial minimum wage was not significant at 0.9417 and had no positive effect on labor in 6 Provinces in Java.

Keywords: Worker Employment, Gross Domestic Regional Product (GDRP), Investation, Minimum Salary of Province,